Careers in the Performance Plastics Industry

IAPD is an international association dedicated to expanding the market for performance plastics through collaboration, education and commitment to sustainability.

Performance Plastics are durable, recyclable engineering-grade plastics that are:

- Making airplanes lighter and more fuel-efficient
- Delivering clean water to people worldwide
- Critical to proper patient care in medical facilities
- Ensuring safety in food and beverage operations
- Contributing to the success of clean energy applications
- And much, much more

Performance Plastics are NOT single-use, throwaway plastics such as bags and bottles.

The Performance Plastics industry is growing and many IAPD members are looking for talented individuals just like you to join their team in all areas, including: Technical, Engineering, Sales, Operations, Management and more.

Visit the Careers page of the IAPD website today to see:

- Video interviews of experts in the Performance Plastics industry
- Descriptions of typical jobs in the Performance Plastics industry
- Job openings and/or internship opportunities with Performance Plastics companies
